A Strategic Long-Term Plan for the Library

The library's strategic planning committee is in the early stages of developing a five-year plan for the library's future. The plan will focus on core services such as patron experience, the library collection, community spaces, and programming. Since public input is an important factor in the process, the committee will seek input from the public via a brief survey during the next few months. Interested community members are invited to attend the committee's monthly meetings; the next one is Thursday, October 19 at 5:30 in the library.

Exhibiting at the Library- We are always looking for new exhibits for either the display wall or the glass-fronted cases. If you have a collection you'd like to share with the community or know an artist or collector who may be interested, contact Nick at the library.

Brief Reviews

Submitted by a participant in the Adult Summer Reading Program

Killing the Rising Sun: How America Vanquished World War II Japan / by Bill O'Reilly and Martin Dugard / 323 pages, published 2016.

I am a huge World War II fan, though I am much more informed about the European theater. This book was very well written and offered new information. The description of fighting, the abuse and cruelty to America's POWs, and the after-effects of the atomic bomb were brutal. The book reinforced my admiration of (President) Harry Truman, my dislike of the egotistical and arrogant General MacArthur, and of Stalin. FDR was fooled by him, but not Truman. The Japanese intended to fight to the death and almost did.

Attention Readers – The book review forms used during the summer reading program have been revised and will be available year-round at the Information Desk. Book reviews submitted will be posted near the New Books area and may appear in the newsletter.
